

PRESS RELEASE

New York, Sept 25th

La Compagnie reveals its Airbus A321neo all-business class experience: more comfort without the price tag.

In April 2019, La Compagnie will become the first french airline to operate the new generation aircraft : The Airbus A321neo. More efficient, less noisy and more sustainable the Airbus A321neo will enable the french boutique airline to accelerate its development between Paris and New York while offering a better experience to passengers.

Unique and spacious, the new A321neo cabin is equipped with 76 all new business class seats (BE Aerospace Diamond) in a 2 by 2 configuration. For optimal comfort, the seats recline to flat and includes a comfy over-mattress.

On entertainment side, La Compagnie will offer to passengers a wide choice of movies and music thanks to the new generation Rave system by Zodiac Inflight Innovations displayed on the brand new 15'7 touch screen Noise cancelling headsets will also be offered to passengers for better comfort.

Moreover, all passengers will be able to connect to the Unlimited High-Speed Wi-Fi supplied by Viasat Inc. Thanks to this partnership, all passengers will be able to go beyond curated entertainment with amplified internet access throughout their in-flight experience, which rivals connectivity standards on the ground.

With those latest innovation on the market and a service closer to passengers, La Compagnie will be able to offer business class' best service still at the best fare.

"Business-class democratization is in our DNA. With our A321neo we will be able to offer the best to our passengers without the price tag" said Jean Charles Périno, executive vice president of Sales and Marketing for La Compagnie. We are proud as a small airline, to partner with the best in market and to offer such a competitive offer'.

The 2 airbus A321neo will operate from April 2019 on the Paris - New York Route
