LA COMPAGNIE BUSINESS-CLASS AIRLINE ACCELERATES DEVELOPMENT WITH ORDER OF TWO AIRBUS A321NEOS FOR 2019

Boutique airline reinforces stable growth and passenger experience with new fleet agreement

September 21, 2017 (Jersey City, NJ) - Three years after launching as an exclusively business-class boutique airline with trans-Atlantic routes on July 4 2014, and a year since doubling its daily flights between New York and Paris, La Compagnie ("The Company") is accelerating its development with an order of two Airbus A321neo aircrafts. This investment in the new Airbus aircraft marks a major milestone for the still-young boutique airline, revealing stable growth and progressive future development.

Due for delivery in 2019, the thoroughly modern, efficient and eco-friendly A321neos will take La Compagnie's in-flight business-class experience to new heights with the latest technologies, Wi-Fi service and "full-flat" beds, ensuring passengers are well-connected and well-rested upon arrival in New York or Paris.

"Since joining forces with XL Airways in 2016, we have progressively focused on optimizing our performance across all fronts," said Laurent Magnin, CEO of La Compagnie. "This year alone, La Compagnie has flown over 40,000 passengers, in which sixty percent were from the US and twenty-five percent frequent fliers. The purchase of two new Airbus A321neos, which are more in line with industry standards than our current fleet of Boeing 757s, is an important step in maintaining our unique position in the market as we continue to invest in our clients and evolve as a brand."

The choice of the French aeronautical firm Airbus, which is headquartered in Blagnac and has manufacturing facilities across Europe and around the world, strengthens La Compagnie's "French-in-spirit" philosophy that has made the carrier so desirable for intercontinental passengers.

"I've always been an advocate for the French industry," said Magnin. "By selecting Airbus and its A321neo, we are able to illuminate our French touch while reinventing the La Compagnie experience. I am very proud to be the first French airline to employ this particular aircraft."

The two Airbus A321neos will be introduced to the La Compagnie fleet in 2019 with a full business-class configuration and the most attractive fares on the market.
